

The deceased was a native of Indiana and was almost 80 years of age. He is survived by a son, H. R. Gresham of Eugene, Oregon, his daughter, Mrs. H. C. Cole of Fort Wayne, Indiana, besides the daughter, Mrs. Kane, with whom he made his home.

An Inquest was held upon the body Thursday, where it was determined that the accident which he had suffered, was a contributing cause of his death. The body was then sent to Indiana for interment.

BOYS' WEEK

THIS week has been called Boys' Week. To be sure every week is boys' week, especially to the fathers of boys, but this week has been set aside especially to discuss the various needs of boys, separately and collectively, and we do not know of a topic more worthy of discussion.

In these days of automobiles, motion picture shows and other factors which create unusual and unaccustomed conditions, the boys and girls alike are subjected to conditions of society which their parents have never had to contend with. The boys and girls of today are enjoying a greater freedom than ever before, a freedom it would seem from parental guidance, as well as from work. The "flapper" and the "sheik" have been the result. Both are the result of unfortunate circumstances and should receive the pity of the community rather than the criticism which their unconventional behavior generally inspires.

Boys' Week will help to keep the young manhood of tomorrow free from the oily headed, baggy trousered type of lounge lizard which today basks in the application of "sheik." This will be by promoting a better understanding between boys and their fathers. Every boy must have an ideal, a pattern, and the boy who knows men, REAL MEN, will not aspire to develop into the type of flack packing degenerate who is now bringing discredit onto otherwise respectable institutions.

Boys' Week should result in lasting good for the community and nation. Where there is a good understanding between fathers and sons there will seldom be found boys who bring discredit onto themselves or their families. Boys who pattern after their fathers will seldom go wrong. For no matter what may be his faults, the man who raises and supports a family by honest work and seeks to give them the advantages of an education, is a pretty good citizen. He is not of the stuff that the "sheiks" are made of.

So also with the girl. We believe that if there were more comradeship between mothers and daughters there would be fewer of the bare-kneed cigarette-smoking style of "flapper," who is unfortunately giving tone, and a poor tone, to the young womanhood of America. We hope that there may be a Girls' Week in America, or better still that every week will be made boys and girls' week in every family. A little more parental care, and little more work would be a wholesome leaven to present conditions.

WHAT THE PEOPLE WANT

WHILE speaking of crime before the local Kiwanis Club last Tuesday Captain Quinn of the San Francisco Police Department, spoke of the manner in which crime and criminals are treated in the metropolitan dailies. He told how the criminal is made the hero, and how a lot of thrills are thrown into the most sordid account. A glance at almost any Sunday edition will confirm Captain Quinn's statement. This trash—this garbled truth, and obscene sensationalism is what the people want, say the publishers of the yellow journals of our cities.

They are wrong. Every clean family paper proves that the people accept this rubbish in order to get the news and would rather have clean journalism. If the people wanted this mass of rot as badly as the yellow press believes, the country paper would today be relegated to the backwoods instead of one of the most potent factors in community development.

The newspaper which by printed word and by illustration is endeavoring to corrupt the moral decency of the nation, though it may number its subscribers by hundreds of thousands, can never be the force in state or nation that the clean respectable journal is. Many read the sensational page to get a thrill, who turn to the conservative and clean paper for information.

THE BAYSHORE HIGHWAY

PROBABLY the greatest present need of this section of the state is wider and more highways. The condition on the present road from San Francisco, especially on Sunday is most dangerous and the danger is increasing rapidly with the increase in the number of cars. Already accidents occur every week end, and often lives are lost as the result of the congested traffic conditions.

There is one solution for this problem, the Bay Shore Highway. A bill enabling the state to build this much needed highway by the imposition of a tax on gasoline has passed both houses of the legislature and now needs only the signature of the governor to make it an established fact.

But will Governor Richardson sign the bill? That's the question. So far he has not shown a very friendly attitude towards the proposition. But even the governor is susceptible to reason, especially when the reason seems to be a fixed idea with a large part of his constituents. It is therefore, being urged that everyone interested in the proposition write the governor and urge him to sign the bill. Your letter will help, and may be a deciding factor in his decision.

RELATIVITY

SCIENTISTS at the convention of the National Academy of Sciences held in Washington, D. C., this week had a warm dispute over the Einstein theory of relativity. We have read both sides without understanding either, and have come to the conclusion that around here at least it hasn't changed conditions much. We would be glad to hear who won the argument, but as the sun still shines with its relative brightness and business is relatively good, we don't see much use of worrying over the outcome. In family circles, however, too much relativity seems to be dangerous, especially if it's your wife's or husband's relatives.

Appears With Constance First Time in Ten Years in "Learning to Love"

After ten years Antonio Moreno comes back to the Talmadge fold. Moreno is Constance Talmadge's leading man in her new First National comedy, "Learning to Love." When Norma Talmadge was fifteen years old, Moreno, then a lad of seventeen, was picked for her leading man in Vitaphone photograph. But since that time Moreno never has played with the Talmadge sisters. He has been leading man to Pola Negri, Gloria Swanson and other feminine stars.

Born in Madrid, Moreno came to America when a boy. His first stage engagement was with the Maude Adams in "The Little Minister."

Later he played with her in "Peter Pan" and followed this with tours with Southern and Marlowe in Shakespearean repertory. In "Learning to Love" Constance shows modern girls the various ways to capture a husband. The new comedy was written by John Emerson and Anita Loos for Joseph M. Schenck Productions. It will be presented at the Sequela Theatre next Wednesday and Thursday, May 6 and 7.

FILM STARS RISK LIVES IN PICTURE

Owen Moore and Constance Bennett Display Courage in "Code of the West"

Dropping several hundred feet from an inferno of fire into the rocky bed of a river is one of the hazardous feats accomplished by Owen Moore and Constance Bennett during the filming of the Zane Grey-Paramount production, "Code of the West."

"The scene required more nerve than anything I have ever seen," declared director William K. Howard, after it was over. "Yet neither Mr. Moore nor Miss Bennett would agree to use a double. They displayed what I believe is one of the greatest bits of courage ever brought out in a motion picture and I admire them for it tremendously."

In the photoplay both Moore and Miss Bennett are hemmed in on all sides by a terrific forest fire and their only hope of escape is to jump into the river far below. They make the leap and land in the stream where they are immediately rescued by a party waiting on the bank.

This scene comes as a fitting and tremendous climax to a series of tense, dramatic events which have their beginning when Miss Bennett, who impersonates a vivacious flapper from the East, goes West for her health, bumps Moore, a sturdy young cowboy, and then deliberately turns him down when he proposes. The cowboy, unaccustomed to the viewpoint of the East, where such conduct is lightly regarded, determines to teach her a lesson. He kidnaps her, forces her, at the point of a gun, to marry him and then carries her off to his cabin in the forest wilderness. It is there that the forest fire traps them and then—well, then comes one of the mightiest thrills ever flashed on the screen. "Code of the West" was adapted to the screen by Lucien Hubbard under the personal supervision of Zane Grey. Besides Moore and Miss Bennett, the cast boasts such well known and well liked players as Mabel Ballin, Charles Ogle and David Butler.

NEWS OF MENLO PARK

The death of Father Jerome H. Hannigan in San Francisco last week caused profound sorrow in Menlo Park, where he was pastor of the church of the Nativity from 1912 to 1918 and where he was beloved and respected by all classes for his devotion to his sacred calling and for his kindness and numerous good deeds. St. Mary's Cathedral was crowded on Monday last with friends and admirers of the departed priest. Among the vast throng could be seen many of his former parishioners from Menlo Park, the place he loved so well. A touching eulogy was spoken by Father Hannigan which brought unbidden tears to hundreds who heard the burning words of love and admiration uttered by one who had been his associate and co-worker for many years in St. Mary's Cathedral. Father Hannigan passed away Friday of last week at his residence in St. Philip's parish from the flu after an illness of several weeks. Father Hannigan was a graduate of St. Mary's College and was ordained a priest at the Catholic Seminary at Baltimore. Among his classmates at the institution were Father Gleason of Palo Alto and Father Kunkle formerly of St. Patrick's Seminary. After his ordination he came to St. Mary's Cathedral where for seventeen years he labored zealously in the cause of religion. He organized the Humane Bureau, which has done wonderful work in charity's cause. He was the head of every activity at the cathedral working strenuously for every good cause devoting his young years in the vineyard of the lord.

Father Hannigan was an able, hard working priest. As a musician he had few equals as a pulpiter he was eloquent and convincing and as an organizer he could not be excelled. He was an untiring worker making a success of whatever he undertook. When Camp Fremont was established here he threw all his energies into the work of looking after the spiritual welfare of the soldier boys and providing also for their bodily comfort. Hundreds called upon him daily for aid and spiritual consolation. There are many former soldier boys scattered throughout the country who will bear with sorrow of the passing of the patriotic priest who gave them comfort and consolation in the trying times of the World War. Father Hannigan had undertaken a great work of building a large church in St. Philip's parish and it was his hope and desire to finish the edifice which would have been a monument to his memory. It was only recently completed when he fell to the kingdom of glory. The anxiety and worry of building the church undermined his health and he passed away in the fifty-sixth year of his life.

Those who knew Father Hannigan loved him for his gentleness, admired him for his great ability and for his tender love of God whom he served with all the devotion of his pure soul. The good priest's work is done. He has passed into the Land of the Dead, where he will find a happy resting place with Him whom he served so loyally and so well on earth. He has gone to his eternal reward in heaven.

Among those who will receive degrees from Stanford next June will be Parley A. Christensen of Menlo Heights who majored in English and will receive a master's degree.

The Murray garage, opposite the Southern Pacific depot, has been leased to an experienced garage man of San Jose. The lessee plans to make many improvements on the property.

Menlo Parlor, N. S. G. W., will give a card party in Native Sons Hall on Wednesday evening, May 6, to raise funds to be expended for floats, etc., for the Diamond Jubilee next September. This evening in the same hall the Native Daughters will give a dance to secure funds for the same purpose. Both parlor plans to make a big showing in the display.

Ray Kelly was operated upon for appendicitis last Monday at a San Jose hospital. Late reports from the institution indicate that he is recovering and will shortly be convalescent. Mr. Kelly has been rather unfortunate in his operations as this is the fourth he has had in the past few years at the same institution. His many friends in Menlo Park hope he will soon be with them.

NEW wiring for electricity or new piping for gas, should be inspected before the service is connected. In case of doubt as to inspections, inquire at our office.

The purpose of the inspection, if the service is Gas, is to make sure that all piping has been done properly and that appliances are correctly installed to give the maximum service for the Gas used.

If the service is Electricity, wiring is carefully inspected to assure conformity to legal requirements. Sockets are inspected, as are fuse boxes, switches, and all other items of equipment provided to receive and utilize electrical energy.
